Beware The E-Mail Hoax: The Evils Of Nutrasweet (Aspartame)

December 18, 1998

A highly inaccurate "chain letter" is being circulated via e-mail warning the reader of the health dangers of aspartame (Nutrasweet) diet drinks.

There is so much scientific untruth in it, it's scary. Be careful, because others know how to manipulate you by this. Just because something is beyond your comprehension doesn't mean it is scientific.

The e-mail is outrageous enough to state that the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation is suing the FDA for collusion with Monsanto.

The headline of the article reads, "WORLD ENVIRONMENTAL CONFERENCE and the MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS FOUNDATION IS SUING F.D.A. FOR COLLUSION WITH MONSANTO Article written by Nancy Markle (1120197)."

Bogus, totally bogus.

You've got to be careful of these Internet hoaxes. When you read health information online, be sure to know the source of the information you are reading, okay?
